Leaves West, White Far in Rear as Davey Surprises by Holding Edge Over Sawyer With Many Precincts Out; Brown Doubles Morgan.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15.—Far out in front and going strong, former Gov. Vic Donahey, nominated by Ohio Democrats to oppose Republican Sen. Simeon D. Fess in the November election, pushed his own plurality over Gov. George White and Congressman Charles West, above the $4,000 mark in latest returns tabulated today.

Donahey's vote from 7,668 of Ohio's 8,552 precincts stood at 231,101, while White and West ran neck and neck, the former polling 146,224 and the latter 146,801.

Republican voters registered their approval of Sen. Simeon D. Fess, severe critic of the Roosevelt recovery program, by renominating him by a margin of 170,000 votes over his nearest opponent, Judge Walter Wanamaker, Akron.

DAVEY GAINING

Martin L. Davey, Kent, former congressman, appeared to have the Democratic gubernatorial nomination clinched. His total from 7,668 precincts stood at 190,238, as compared with 171,522 for Lieut. Gov. Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, and 159,256 for William G. Pickrel, Dayton.

Clarence Brown, former secretary of state, far outstripped a field of six opponents for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Brown's vote from 7,774 precincts was 309,137, while Daniel E. Morgan, former Cleveland city manager, in second place, had only 149,114.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15.—Given a huge plurality by Ohio Democrats in the primary, "Honest Vic" Donahey, governor from 1922 to 1928, will oppose Republican Sen. Simeon D. Fess in the November election for the right to represent the Buckeye state in the U. S. senate.

With returns far from complete the count today showed Donahey with almost twice the vote of either of his primary opponents. Congressman Charles West, reputed to have had the tacit endorsement of the Roosevelt administration, and Gov. George White.

White, who was running third but not far behind Congressman West, has conceded the nomination to Donahey and wired him congratulations.

HUGE FESS VOTE

Republicans, in re-nominating Senator Fess, bitter critic of the "New Deal," gave him a tremendous vote, far exceeding the combined poll of his four opponents, Judge Walter Wanamaker, Akron; John M. Vorys, Columbus; Gen. Jacob S. Coxey, Massillon, and Edward Lamb, Toledo.

Martin L. Davey, Kent, former congressman, and Clarence Brown, Blanchester, former secretary of state, were leading the Democratic and Republican gubernatorial races, respectively.

Brown's nomination seemed certain, for his vote was more than twice that of Daniel E. Morgan, former Cleveland city manager, his nearest opponent. Of the five other Republican gubernatorial aspirants only John A. Elden, Cleveland, and C. Nelson Sparks, made any appreciable showing.

Davey forged ahead in the Democratic race for governor as the count of the state's 8,552 precincts approached the halfway point. He took the lead from Lieut. Gov. Charles Sawyer who had held it continuously up to then, but Davey's nomination was by no means assured. Nor was William G. Pickrel, Dayton, former governor, out of the race.

On the tabulation of 4,468 precincts Davey, in first place had accounted for only 6,828 more votes than Pickrel in third place and only 4,343 more than Sawyer in second place.

UP TO CUYAHOGA

Cuyahoga county, unusually slow in reporting its vote because of the cumbersome ballots weighted down with the names of more than 200 candidates for various offices there, could easily turn the tide either to Sawyer or Pickrel. Sawyer was reported to be especially strong there, but the first 400 Cuy-

Threat of Death is Penned In Letter

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 15.—With the life of the victim believed at stake, London and provincial police today waited developments in the payment of the $150,000 ransom in the kidnapping yesterday of John S. Labatt, wealthy brewer, to spur them on to greater activity in solving Canada's first challenge to the law.

Developments today, twenty-four hours after Labatt disappeared while on his way from the summer home at Sarnia Beach, Ont., to his office here, were centering in Toronto where Hugh Labatt, younger brother of the kidnapped brewer, is awaiting instructions from the kidnappers.

HAS RANSOM MONEY

Hugh Labatt, it is understood here, has the ransom money with him. Shortly after he arrived in Toronto yesterday afternoon, he visited the Bank of Nova Scotia it was reported. He had preceded to Toronto by a route supposedly laid out by the kidnappers in their note.

Vincent T. Foley, London attorney and spokesman for the family, announced early today that the family had disregarded the warning and asked the cooperation of Canadian authorities, the United States department of justice and the Detroit police in solving the crime.

Foley, speaking for Mrs. Labatt, who is prostrated and under a physicians care here, declined to reveal the exact contents of the ransom note but said its contents "were so fantastic as to be almost unbelievable."

The note was found under the seat of the brewer's abandoned automobile and cautioned the family not to report the kidnapping to police on pain of death to the victim. The note was signed "Three-Fingered Abe."

Hugh was accompanied to Toronto by Louis McCaghey, sales manager for the brewery. McCaghey is reported to be well known in the underworld of Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago. Dur-

PERRYSBURG, Aug. 15.—One of three bandits who held up the state highway garage at Findlay early this morning was shot and seriously wounded here today by a trio of Findlay policemen who overtook the gunmen after a hot 40-mile pursuit.

The bandits' car ran over a curb in Perrysburg and crashed into a tree. When the three men attempted to flee on foot, the officers sent a hail of bullets after them, hitting one. The other two escaped.

Only $20 was taken in the garage holdup, according to John Howe.

New Deal Splits as West is Beaten and Burke Comes Through

BRYAN IS DEFEATED

White House May Aid Donahey's Cause

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The Roosevelt New Deal got a draw decision in yesterday's Democratic senatorial primaries, it appeared today.

The administration backed two candidates—Rep. Edward R. Burke in Nebraska, against Gov. Charles W. ("Brother Charlie") Bryan, and Rep. Charles West in Ohio, against Gov. George White and ex-Gov. Vic Donahey. Burke won, but West did not, the Ohio nomination going to "Honest Vic," who has been three times governor of the state.

100 PER CENTERS

Burke in Nebraska and West in Ohio were both branded as 100 per cent New Dealers. It was Burke's quotation, analyzing the New Deal, that President Roosevelt quoted in his speech at Green Bay last week. Burke's description of it was that it was "as old as Christian ethics."

West was injected into the Ohio campaign late, and as a direct result of White House encouragement. For some reason, still unexplained, the administration appeared not to relish the idea of either Gov. White or Donahey being in the Senate. Ex-Gov. James M. Cox, with whom President ran on the national ticket in 1920, was summoned to Washington and there were lengthy conferences. The upshot of these conferences was that Congressman West, 39-year-old professor, serving his second term in congress, and little known outside his own district, was projected into the race.

The result in Ohio insures a red-hot contest in November between Donahey and Senator Simeon D. Fess, 73, who walked away with the Republican nomination. Fess has been one of the most consistent and persistent critics of administration policies.

PROMOTED BURKE

As for West in Ohio, the administration did everything it could, although quietly, to promote Burke's nomination. The administration did not want "Brother Charlie" in the Senate, for he has been a frequent critic of New Deal policies, particularly the AAA. He once described this branch of the New Deal as "slitting the farmer's throat from ear to ear."

TRACTOR PARTY TO

REMAIN WITH BYRD

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Aug. 15.—By Mackay radio—it will be sometime before Admiral Richard E. Byrd is well enough to return from his lonely base 123 miles south of here with the tractor party which effected his rescue Friday.

A brief radio message from Dr. Thomas C. Poulter who led the tractor party on the dark and dangerous journey confirmed assumptions that Admiral Byrd had been ill for a long time. The message said:

"We shall stay here until Admiral Byrd feels able to travel. Our presence here and the fact that we have relieved him of the physical details incidental to his solitary confinement have already lifted a great weight off his shoulders. He is remarkably cheerful."

Spangler on Ticket

W. I. Spangler, Tarleton, was nominated with August Weber to represent the Democratic party in the senatorial contest in Tuesday's voting.

They will oppose Paul Gieger and Robert Pfeiffer.

Spangler received 1,562 votes here and Weber got 1,266.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Congratulating former Gov. A. V. Donahey of Ohio on his victory in the Democratic senatorial primary, Postmaster General Farley today predicted "Honest Vic" would win a similar triumph over Senator Fess, Republican incumbent, in the fall election.

"Congratulations on your victory," said Farley in a telegram to Donahey. "When you come to the Senate in January, backed as you will be by the united Democracy of Ohio, I am certain the progressive legislation of the Roosevelt administration will find in you an ardent and entire supporter. Result of G.O.P. Voting

Brings Smiles & Dismay

THE fact that Clarence J. Brown won Pickaway-co from Daniel Morgan caused pleasing results in some sections and some not so pleasing in others. It seems that the party's organization leaders, former Senator C. C. Chapplear and John E. Walters, the generalissimo of the G. O. P., took unto their bosoms Mr. Morgan, recognized as a mighty good man.

While the county committees were not asked to endorse any candidate or candidates for the nomination it seemed rather strange to some of the party's supporters that the two chairmen should campaign for Mr. Morgan. Naturally there was some talk, especially among those who favored Mr. Brown.

The Florence family, Miss Anna and Col. George, did all they could for Clarence J., and so did former Mayor B. T. Hedges, who has always been a Brown admirer. Hedges was in the election board office just before the final precinct came in this morning and, with his shirt open at the neck and a cane in his hand, he was grinning from ear to ear. "We'll show 'em," said the ex-official who was beaten as mayor and promoted into a better job in State Treasurer Harry Day's office, but just what he means by "we'll show 'em" he didn't say.

Just how much work was done in Mr. Morgan's favor was seen in Circleville-tpw, Chairman Walters' own bailiwick, where Brown received but one vote, Morgan

Lancaster Woman Takes Three of Five Counties for Victory

MADER RUNS THIRD

Claypool Retains His Post on Committee

Polling a majority of 1,443 votes, Miss Josephine Justus, of Lancaster, defeated Miss Jemima Dungan, E. Mill-st., for the position of state central committee woman from the 11th congressional district, it was revealed today in a checkup of counties in the district.

The vote in the five counties was: Miss Justus, 8,218, and Miss Dungan, 6,775.

Congressman Mell G. Underwood, of New Lexington, was renominated by the Democratic voters of the district for congress, and Garrett S. Claypool, Chillicothe, attorney, was elected for a second term as Democratic state central committee man from the district.

VOTES COMPARED

In defeating Miss Dungan for a second term, Miss Justus carried three of the five counties, Fairfield, Hocking, and Perry. The vote in each of the counties was: Pickaway, Miss Dungan, 1,565; Miss Justus, 1,113; Ross, Miss Dungan, 1,813; Miss Justus, 1,558; Fairfield, Miss Dungan, 1,722; Miss Justus, 3,450; Hocking, Miss Dungan, 935; Miss Justus, 1,002; Perry, Miss Dungan, 740; Miss Justus, 1,095.

John P. Phillips, Jr., Chillicothe attorney, was named Republican state central committee man from the district to succeed Milton J. Scott, who was a candidate for secretary of state. Totals in the counties were incomplete, but Phillips' overwhelming majority in Ross-co gave him the position.

Dr. James M. Lantz, of Lancaster, ran second to Congressman Underwood in the district, the poll revealed, although Hocking-co had not been reported at press time.

SHERIFF TOPS TICKET;

TREASURY RACE WARM

County Goes to Davey, Brown, Donahey and Fess With Record Vote Cast; Official Count Being Made by Board of Elections.

Circleville and Pickaway-co voters looked back on the results of their handiwork today and viewed the following nominations:

Charles Radcliff for a third term as sheriff over John G. "Doggy" Ward, Jr., by a margin of more than 2,400 votes in the unofficial tabulation.

Robert G. Colville for treasurer over Earl Hoffman, incumbent, seeking his third term, and Frank Anderson, the losers finishing in the order named. Colville's drive to the top was one of the most interesting angles to an election here in recent years, but more about that later.

Marian Rowe Lutz for recorder to succeed Mary G. Morris, not a candidate. Mrs. Lutz in a field of nine Democratic candidates more than doubled the score of her nearest opponent, Alice Roof.

HUNSICKER AHEAD

Clark K. Hunsicker for representative to the general assembly seat now held by Nathan A. Bohnert, retiring incumbent, over Ansel Crowover, Nelson Reichelderfer and H. M. Crites who finished two-three-four behind the Deer creek-tpw-W. Union-st resident. Hunsicker will meet Marion Senbrenner who was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Hilda Burns over Hulda Redd for the Republican nomination in an interesting contest. The chase was nip and tuck from the start with Miss Burns gradually slipping ahead until the First ward east gave her 76 to 24 to clinch the effort. The race was the first advent in politics for the two local misses and both did themselves proud.

The county voted overwhelmingly for Vic Donahey for senator giving him more than 3,000 edge over White and West; backed Davey's candidacy for governor with an unofficial edge of 337 over Sawyer with Pickrel a very poor third;

supported Clarence Brown's candidacy for the G. O. P. nomination giving him 841 against 656 for Morgan in the unchecked tally. All county candidates running unopposed received nice complimentary votes with Judge J. W. Adkins getting 3,465 to top the ticket although Sheriff Charles Radcliff set a precedent when he set a record of 3,608 with opposition.

NAME HUSBAND IN

$35,000 ESTATE

Her husband, C. A. Weldon, attorney, is bequeathed all personal property absolutely, and all real estate during his natural life time, of the late Mrs. Margaret Weldon, according to terms of the document filed in probate court Wednesday.

The estate is estimated to be worth $35,000.

The will further stipulates that at the death of Mr. Weldon, the real estate is to be divided between a son and daughter, Lemuel Weldon, and Mrs. Margaret Banning.

Mr. Weldon has been named executor without bond. Judge C. C. Young appointed John Boggs, George P. Foresman, and Will Graham, appraisers of the estate.

MADER WINS CIRCLEVILLE

Circleville gave its "favorite son" John F. Mader a splendid vote in his effort to obtain the Democratic nomination for congressman at large from Trounchard. Mader, 451 (this figure is believed sufficient for the ballot but will not be officially known until the board of elections acts).

Other unopposed candidates besides Judge Adkins were: A. L. Wilder for clerk of courts, 3,160; John W. Hay for commissioner, 2,950; C. E. Wright for Republican commissioner, 1,170; Clifford M. White for Democratic auditor, 3,194; Forrest Short, for Republican auditor, 1,138; C. E. Bowers' name written in for coroner, 400 (whether this figure was sufficient to put him on the ballot had not been certified today by the election board); Ray W. Davis, Republican for prosecutor, 1,284; G. D. Phillips, for G. O. P. coroner, 1,089; George Fickard, written in for treasurer, 451 (this figure is believed sufficient for the ballot but will not be officially known until the board of elections acts).

Underwood won 24 of the 29 precincts outside of Circleville from Mader.

Little need be said concerning the state contests as far as Pickaway-co is concerned except that Davey, Donahey, Brown and Fess received large votes here, Donahey leading all the state candidates just as he always has when he ran for a state office in which Pickaway-co was entitled to a voice.

The Hunsicker-Crownover-Reichelderfer-Crites race for representative was a "honey." Hunsicker, who is chairman of the county's Democratic central committee, was conceded the best Continued on Page Three ahoga precincts out of a total of 1,120, gave Davey 11,688, Sawyer, 9,984 and Pickrel, 8,270.

The landslide to Donahey in the Democratic senatorial race was a stiff blow to the prestige of eminent Ohio Democrats closely aligned with the Roosevelt administration.

Always an independent, Donahey, while promising to uphold the hand of President Roosevelt, if nominated and elected, did not make his pronouncement strong enough to satisfy the president's chief Ohio advisers, among them former Gov. James M. Cox, the Democratic presidential nominee in 1920.

Cox, in militantly advocating the nomination of Congressman West, told the Democratic voters Donahey "has his own program, not the president's" at heart. Ohio's junior U. S. Senator, Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland, also campaigned vigorously for the defeated West.

Donahey charged a "deliberate attempt to mislead the voters of Ohio into believing West is the selection of the president of the United States." "Professor West is the hand-picked choice of Mr. Cox and Senator Bulkley," Donahey charged.

As for how he stands with regard supporting the president and his national recovery program, it is best expressed in his own words.

"HONEST SUPPORT"

"I believe I possess a little reputation for truth and sincerity and when I say that I will honestly support the President, in every proper way, I mean just that," he declared. "No truthful man will attempt to misrepresent my position in this important matter."

Donahey ran behind West and White in the big cities. White leading in Cleveland and Cincinnati—but his tremendous personal popularity among the rural population where Congressman West was little known and where the voters resented the attempt of Governor White to put a sales tax through the legislature, carried "Honest Vic" to victory.

While Governor White went down to defeat, Newton D. Baker, Woodrow Wilson's war secretary, apparently had delivered Cuyahoga-co, the home of Senator Bulkley as well as of Baker, to the governor. Baker also triumphed in retaining control of the Cuyahoga-co Democratic committee, which Congressman Martin Sweeney, West supporter, sought to wrest from him.

Ohio's second largest county, Hamilton, went for White by a narrow margin, with West second, Donahey third. White's complete vote there was 12,107, West's 11,024. Donahey's 10,196.

The same county, home of Lieut. Gov. Sawyer, gave him a plurality of almost 6 to 1 over Davey, who ran second there. Sawyer polled 25,963, Davey, 4,724, Pickrel 3,880.

Brown, the apparent Republican nominee for governor, even out-pollied Sawyer in Hamilton-co, rolling up a total of 26,058 against six opponents. Morgan was given 3,295 there, the others less than 1,000 votes each.

EXCEEDS SEN. FESS

In Franklin-co (Columbus) normally Republican, the vote for Donahey, a Democrat, exceeded even that for Fess, Republican. Donahey received 26,738 here, Fess 15,950, but the Donahey majority was partially accounted for by the fact one of Fess' four opponents, John M. Vorys, hails from this county. Vorys polled only 7,708 in his home county.

Sheriff Tops Race

chance to gain the nomination with this connection one of his long suits. He encountered unexpected opposition from Mr. Crownover for a while but gradually slipped ahead. An official check will probably be necessary before it is certain whether Reichelderfer or Crites finished third although he outcome will have no effect on the leader.

Hunsicker's unofficial edge over Crownover is 377.

DUNLAP BY 1,000

Renick Dunlap, running for the republican nomination for congress, had easy sailing over Tom P. White, of Fairfield-co, at least as far as Pickaway was concerned gathering 1,226 against 259 for his opponent. Mr. Dunlap's ability as a campaigner gave him an advantage.

Mrs. Marian Lutz, widowed mother of four children, was nearly a walk-away for the republican nomination. At no time in the course of reports from various precincts was she in danger of falling by the wayside. She carried on a strenuous campaign which bore fruit to the tune of 329 votes. The other candidates, unofficially, finished in the following order: Alice Roof, 642; Leonard Schleich, 533; Elizabeth King, 492; James Thomas, 463; Arthur Bower, 387; Oscar Woelke, 225; and Lester J. Hall, 210.

Now to get down to the race that proved the feature of the election, that for the Democratic nomination for treasurer. First it was Hoffman in the lead, then Anderson and finally Bob Colville, or whom it appeared somewhat dark in the early stages of the returns. Colville regained in the city more than the number of votes he lost in the county. This man, a hard working member of the board of education, and who led five candidates for positions on that board a couple of years ago, proved his popularity by corraling 768 votes in Circleville against 561 for Hoffman and 454 for Anderson, a goodly number taking into consideration that Mr. Anderson has not been a resident of Circleville for a long time.

Anderson had some parts of the county in the palm of his hand, while Hoffman had others, Colville's nomination was assured when the First ward east reported with 111 votes for him, 75 for Hoffman and only 16 for Anderson.

RACE-INTERESTING

The runaway Sheriff Radcliff made of his race astounded even his closest advisors. Former Deputy Sheriff Ward had based his campaign upon Radcliff's effort to obtain a third term, and upon his own qualifications. Radcliff based his campaign on his record in office which now stands at not a single major crime in the county unsolved. When the first returns came into the election board office it was apparent that the contest, if there was any, was ended. Radcliff didn't lose a single precinct and added humiliation to the defeat by grabbing 86 votes to four for Ward in New Holland, and 138 to 15 in Harrison in addition to 106 to 12 in Madison-twp where all the folks voted for Charlie mostly because Bryan Custer, a township favorite, is his chief deputy.

Ward was facing unsurmountable odds in opposing Radcliff with such a record behind him but he waged a strong campaign and had even the sheriff worried the day before the election.

It will be impossible to disclose the exact number of votes cast during the day until the election board makes its official count sometime within the next day. It is believed the primary brought out a modern record.

Inventor of Radio

Although many inventors were at work on the theory of wireless, Mahlon Loomis, an American, successfully transmitted signals between two kites about 1895 and patented his system in 1872. He failed to develop it, however, and Guglielmo Marconi, who patented and put to practical use his system of wireless communication in 1898, is considered its inventor or discoverer. Dr. Lee De Forest is regarded as the father of the modern radio as he perfected the audion tube, in 1910, through which the voice was successfully transmitted. First regular radio broadcasts were made from KDKA, in Pittsburgh, in the fall of 1919. Pathfinder Magazine.

ing prohibition bootleggers frequently contacted him for beer shipments.

Family friends also expressed the fear today that the wealthy brewer might not survive the kidnapping, pointing out that he has suffered severe heart attacks lately and that another attack might prove fatal.

Labatt was "snatched" yesterday while driving from his summer home on Lake Huron to London, a distance of 65 miles. Three hours after his departure, a stranger telephoned the brewing company and asked for Hugh. Told Hugh had not arrived, the stranger bluntly informed Hugh's stenographer: "Tell him his brother has been kidnapped."

A few minutes later, Hugh Labatt was contacted by the kidnaper at his home and given a similar message. He believed it a joke until the man identified himself as "Three Fingers Abe" and said John Labatt's car would be found three blocks from the home, near St. Joseph's hospital.

"The abductor told me to raise $150,000 at once for John's release," Hugh is quoted as telling Detective Inspector Thomas Bolton. "He said a note detailing instructions would be found in the car. He told me he had seen John yesterday in Detroit, thus indicating my brother was being followed prior to the crime."

Accompanied by local police, the brother found the car as promised and also the penciled ransom note.

Special Offer to Contestants

In order to assist those who have already entered the Campaign Club to get a good start and as a special inducement for more members to enter the following extra vote offer is made, 240,000 extra votes, in addition to the regular schedule of votes as shown on covers of receipt books will be credited for each and every $30 worth of subscriptions turned in from the beginning of the campaign up until Saturday night, August 25. Both old and new subscriptions will count on this biggest voting opportunity of the campaign. After this date subscriptions will count by far less votes, and positively at no future time in the campaign will they count as many votes as they will during this period.

UNDERWOOD SWAMPS OPPONENTS

MELL G. UNDERWOOD

The awarding of the prizes at the end of the campaign will be made strictly on a vote basis, and not necessarily on the number of subscriptions or the amount of money turned in. Therefore it will be to every member's advantage to get in every one possible while they count the most votes. Without a doubt the man who takes the fullest advantage of this big extra vote offer will have a decided advantage to win first prize. More members are needed in the campaign as only a few who have entered have made any active start. A hustler can enter now, during this banner vote period and win any prize in the list.

Our Congressman is still a favorite with the voters. He carried all five counties and piled up an overwhelming majority in the district.

Time to Forget

NOW that the primary campaign is over and rivalries have been settled, leaders in both parties in Ohio have a job of healing to do before the fall campaign gets under way.

Democratic county leaders wisely have indicated their intention to reconcile disappointed candidates and factions in order to insure united party action in November. Democratic editors likewise are counseling harmony and expressing confidence that differences can be patched up as they have been in other years when the primary strife was not quite as intense as it has been this year.

They point out that in a period when problems to be entrusted to elected officials are most important, and good government offers the only hope of solution, minds of voters should not be further confused by carrying over personalities and petty factionalism into the fall canvass.

Now that they have come to the time for cooling off we would remind candidates and their friends who let their ambitions and emotions carry them away that fair and friendly rivalry within a political party is beneficial. Contests conducted upon a high plane of sportsmanship tend to develop keen popular interest and to assure greater participation by the electorate in decisions determined at the polls.

Work for President

IT was to be expected that the return of President Roosevelt from Hawaii would offer an opportunity for many rumors and reports bearing upon governmental policies. Such has proved to be the case.

One of the rumors is that the president may call congress into special session to deal with some of the problems that have grown acute during his absence.

There probably is no basis for this report. The unprecedented range of powers delegated to the president by congress arm the executive for dealing with almost any question that may arise. Unless he should be reluctant to take the responsibility, therefore, there seems to be no need for his summoning congress to his assistance.

Among the matters which appear to need early constructive attention labor unrest stands out as a conspicuous one. The legislation enacted by the last session of congress in the hope that it would serve discourage strikes and would make for peace in industry has not yet had sufficient time to demonstrate its value. Another problem confronting the president is that growing out of the drought.

Calm, reasoned judgment is demanded by the problems now pressing for attention. The president, rested and refreshed mentally and physically, should be able to give them the treatment they need.

The two branches of the family probably split when the monkeys couldn't learn to kill one another.

Among amusing sights promised by the future is that of an absent-minded nudist striking a match.

"MA CINDERELLA" by Harold Bell Wright

SYNOPSIS

Diane Carrol—young artist and wealthy orphan, most interested in her work than society—visits the little village of Pine Knob in the Ozarks. Her sunny disposition melts the usual frigidity of the mountaineers towards strangers and they accept her as one of the "folks"—except Ann Haskel, whose word is law in Pine Knob. Diane, nevertheless, is fascinated by Ann about whom she has heard conflicting stories of generosity and hardness. The mountain woman seems to be avoiding Diane, but her good-for-nothing stepson, Jeff Todd, follows the artist everywhere. Ann has a son of her own, John Herbert Haskel, whom she sent away years ago, following the death of her first husband. Diane's best friends among the mountaineers are "Uncle Jimmie" and "Aunt Josie" Cartwright who have promised to protect her from the annoying Jeff. One day, Ann comes upon Diane painting in Shady Creek Valley and brusquely asks: "What be you a-doin' hyeah?" Diane apologizes for trespassing. Ann's demeanor changes immediately and she says: "You're welcome. I got sense to see you ain't a-hurtin' nobody." Seemingly to relax and grow more friendly, Ann confides in Diane that, while the people of the woods are better than the society folk at the Lodge, still the backwoods would be no place to raise young folks who could be something if given a chance. Diane realizes that the mountain woman was revealing more of her life than she intended and the girl's heart went out to her.

CHAPTER IX.

The younger woman wanted to speak of the boy that Ann Haskel had sent away no one knew where nor why. But before she could find words the other said, harshly: "Hit's a cryin' shame fer a body what's had your chance to be a-doin' sich triffin' play-work as this hyeah pitcher-paintin'. If I had a gal like you I'd sure make out fer her to know how to do somethin' that war real."

Diane launched again into a defense of her art.

"Hit all sounds purty to hyeah you a-tellin' hit. But can't nobody eat a pitcher, can they? Can't nobody wear 'em. A pitcher of a cow milk, give me milk. You can't harvest no caw from a pitcher of a cawfield. A pitcher fire wouldn't warn a body if they was freezin'. Hit don't make no difference how hard you work at hit you can't never make a pitcher real. Hit's all just make-believe. You jest natchally can't paint these hyeah woods like they be. You're bound to leave out the song of the birds an' the smell of the trees an' bresh an' ferns. You can't paint the rustlin' of the leaves an' the feel of the sun in' wind into no pitcher. I like to deal with things that air real. I want my woods to be a-mighty make 'em. I don't want no make-believe woods with all the life left out."

"But, Mrs. Haskel, you believe in education, don't you? Isn't the world of books and music and art and—and thought—isn't it all as real as the world you know about?" "Education is what a body makes of hit," retorted the other, stubbornly. "Folks what's got education air all kinds, same as them what ain't. Look at you Lodge folks. You'uns got education, an' what be you? That man I was a-tellin' you 'bout, he war educated, too, an' couldn't nobody help believin' in sich as him. He sure warn't no triffin' pretender. He did things like a man ought."

"What did your friend do?" asked Diane, quickly. "Tell me about him. Perhaps I have heard of him. Perhaps my father knew him."

"An' Haskel rose hurriedly to her feet. "I got to be a-goin'," she said, harshly. "Can't stay hyeah all day a-triffin' with you. I got real work to do."

With this she crossed to the opposite side of the glade and disappeared behind some bushes which hid a pocket-like hollow in the side of the mountain. A moment later she reappeared, riding the big bay horse.

"What a beautiful horse!" Diane exclaimed. "I have often admired him from a distance."

The mountain woman halted close beside the artist, and the horse, putting down his head, nuzzled the girl's shoulder with his nose.

Diane laughed as she patted and fondled the animal's head and neck. "I believe he likes me," she cried, in almost childish delight, and laid her cheek against the white blazed forehead. Suddenly she looked up at the rider's face, startled by what she had heard. Ann Haskel had actually laughed aloud—a low queer sort of chuckle it was, but there was no mistaking it.

"Don't you be fooled," she said. "Billy he's only pretendin'. He's a-hopin' mebbe you'll feed him somethin' he likes. You see, he's a man hoss an' jest natchally knows how to git 'round a woman. If you war a man, now, he wouldn't pay you a mite more attention than if you war a rock or a bush. He's allus a-makin' believe he likes me—tryin' to make a fool out of me. Mostly he does hit, too, 'cause he's 'bout from a colt. I already got a pitcher of him in my mind what's better'n anybody could paint. If I couldn't have Billy hisse', I sure wouldn't want no pitcher of him that would jest natchally be bound to leave out all what he really is to me. So I reckon I'll jest keep the pitcher I already got."

Diane stood at a window of the Lodge, looking out at the rain. A slow drizzle had set in the afternoon of the previous day. Some time during the night a roaring downpour had developed, but by daybreak, again, the storm had passed, leaving in its wake leaden clouds and dripping mist.

On a fair day one could see from that window a beautiful stretch of river leading like an aisle of shining silver between the green forest walls to a narrow valley which lost the only livin' thing I know what even pretends with me that a way."

"I should like to paint him," said Diane. "Won't you let me make a picture of him for you? I don't mean for money," she added, impulsively, "but just because—well—because I'd love to do it."

"What would I want a pitcher of Billy for when I got him? I couldn't ride no pitcher of a hoss. Hit wouldn't talk to me ner he'd me git 'round, ner rub his haid ag'in me like he's a-doin' to you right now."

"Oh, but you're very fond of Billy, aren't you?" "Hit stands to reason I'd be. He's a good hoss. We been together a long time, too."

"Well, if anything should happen to make you lose him, wouldn't you like a picture of him to—help you remember him?"

"That ain't nothin' goin' to happen to make me lose Billy ever," the mountain woman returned, grimly. "I aim to keep him right with me always. Ain't nobody ever goin' to take him away. He's only a hoss, but he means as much to me as if he war human."

"But what if he were to die?" "If Billy war to die I reckon I'd jest have to git me another hoss in his place," returned Ann Haskel, slowly. "That hard, uncompromising look settled like a dark shadow over her face as she continued, harshly: "But that's some things, miss, what can't nothin' ever take the place of—not to satisfy, I mean."

Again Diane thought of Ann Haskel's son and of Jeff Todd, whom she had raised in her own boy's place.

The mountain woman went on in a dreary monotone: "When a body can't have what they want they take what they can git, don't they? When you can't do what you want, you do what you can. All my life I been a-puttin' up with what I could git an' a-doin' what I had to. Thank you kindly fer your offer, miss, but you couldn't paint no pitcher of my hoss fer me. You couldn't never know him well enough. I raised him itself somewhere among the wooded hills. But today the shining river lay hidden beneath a heavy blanket of sodden gray. The valley and the hills were shut out by a thick curtain of the same dank mist. The forest itself was submerged in the ghostly gloom. The nearer trees seemed wrapped in winding sheets. The woodland life had vanished. There was no sound save the steady drip, drip, drip of the slow-falling rain.

The people of the Lodge were making desperate efforts to amuse themselves. It would be an hour or more before luncheon, but already the cocktail-shakers were going. Some one at the piano was hammering out some sort of blues. Some one was moaning and wailing and crooning another variation of the same woeful melody. A radio loosed a jazz orchestra playing jungle madness, which was interrupted by weird and frightful howls, unearthly screams, maniacal shrieks, and other devilish noises.

Diane had tried not to be an ungracious guest. While she had accepted her friend's invitation with the condition that she have full freedom for her work, she had made herself into the Lodge life and was liked quite generally by the vacationists. She had gone swimming and boating and fishing; she had danced and played cards and billiards, and was held to be a good sport—"clever and all that, you know, but queer—darned queer about some things—and more than a bit touched on the subject of art."

But the girl could not hide from herself the truth that, as Uncle Jimmie had put it, she "warn't sure 'nough one of that Lodge bunch." It is true, too, that while Diane did not realize it, those devotees of pleasure stood just a little in awe of this young woman whose wealth, by their standards, entitled her to do nothing, but who insisted on living to some purpose.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE is a little difference in the way the girls look at things now. Maybe the girls now have got the right idea and their mas were all wrong. I don't know. But anyway, it's different.

I heard about a nice old lady that cried over her daughter at the wedding and everything, just like she'd been cried over herself. Then when the wedding supper was all eat up and everything, the ma went to daughter and says, "Now, before you start on your trip, if I was you I'd take that wedding dress and lay it away in a box with lavender. I done that with the goods it's made of, you know, after my wedding, and it'd be nice if you'd save it for your daughter's wedding, too."

"Daughter, your foot!" says daughter. "I'll put it away all right, but I want to save it for my own wedding! When I get through with it, daughter can have it if there's anything left. Why, ma, of things than you-all used to, when you only used things once we girls get a lot more good out of 'em."

THE HERALD SALESMANSHIP CLUB - Circleville, Ohio

DETROIT SEEMS "IN" TROUNCING YANKEES

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Detroit's a great town. Nice people. Fine hotels. Delightful weather in early October. Swell place to see part of a world series. And Frank Navin's a genial host. Frank owns the ball club and will be glad to accept your reservations.

Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, had some idea of playing host to the visiting firemen this October. But that was before Frank's battling Bengals twice knocked off Col. Jake's Yanks, 9 to 5 and 7 to 3.

It wasn't so much the fact that they won two games as the easy way in which they did it that convinced some 77,000 of the natives that Mr. Navin's Bengals are not to be denied this year.

LEAD LENGTHENED

Certainly not with a 6-1-2 game lead. And that's what they boast today with only 44 games left to play.

Incidentally, the Bengals ran their winning streak to fourteen games and Schoolboy Rowe ran his individual string to thirteen straight when he set down the locals with four hits in the nightcap.

When Gomez and Crowder were announced for the first game it appeared as if Mickey Cochrane were making a smart move in conceding a game with an old pitcher who wouldn't mind a beating.

The Yanks got to the old beat-al for five runs in three heats and then for five frames the battling Bengals were baffled by the Yanks as they stood there helpless before the left-handed wizardry of the goaty Castilian.

Then came the deluge. Without warning, and seemingly without effort, the Bengals tore into Gomez, buried him under a five-run barrage and then in the next heat went out and pinned young Jimmy Doherty's ears back.

RUFFING HIT, TOO

Red Ruffing was nominated to lead a lost cause for the Yanks in the nightcap and if strikeouts won ball games, he would have been all right. But in among Red's eleven strikeouts the Bengals inserted a dozen blows, three of which went to Charley Gehring whose record for the day was four hits, two homers and six runs driven across the plate.

There may be better ball players than Gehring but the writer doesn't know who they are and I don't think anybody else does.

Huge Douglas Fir Trees

In the lower altitude of Mt. Rainier National park are dense forests of Douglas fir trees, some of them 500 to 700 years old, with diameters ranging up to 8 feet, and height around 200 feet, many of them rising about 100 feet to the first limb.

Practice for Notre Dame Game?

RED BIRD SCHOOL TO START MONDAY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15.—Although the Columbus Red Birds are to be out of town on a trip around the entire American Association, there will be plenty of baseball at the Red Bird Stadium next week. The Red Birds are to conduct a school for young baseball players from Monday through Saturday and enough applicants have already been accepted to make up an entire league.

"School" is open to any boy 17 years of age or over who has either been selected by a qualified representative of the Birds or who is recommended by a responsible party. Four states and 35 Ohio towns are represented by the amateur and semi-pro players who have asked to try out during the coming week.

CITY INCLUDED

Acceptances have been mailed to aspirants from the following towns: Laurelville, Bethesda, Pataskala, Newell, West Virginia, Richmond, Ind., Dayton, Fort Recovery, Columbus, Millersburg, Lodi, Circleville, West Salem, Wooster, Lancaster, Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Lima, Barboursport, Springfield, Groveport, Waverly, Celina, Cincinnati, Corning, Milford Center, Carey, Amanda, Bucyrus, London, Radcliff, Westerville, Marysville, Sherman, Eaton, Ind., Howard, Carroll, Earl Park, Ind., Newark, Dunkirk, Gilboa and Kenton.

Administrative officers of the "school" are George M. Trautman, president of the Columbus Red Birds, Donald E. Beach, club secretary, and Branch Rickey, vice-president of the Red Birds and generalissimo of the St. Louis Cardinals. The selection staff in charge of try-outs is composed of Cardinal and Red Bird scouts including Charles Barrett, Charles Kelchner, Joe Schultz, Frank Rickey, Joe Sugden, George Millay and Clayton Bailey.

The public is not to be admitted to the coming try-outs and only officials in charge of the workouts and representatives of the press will gain entrance to the Stadium. Only applicants who have applied for admission to the Columbus Club and have been accepted will be permitted to participate in the week's trials.

SINGLES MATCHES AND NOT DOUBLES

The ladies' tennis tournament booked at the Pickaway Country club will be played in singles matches and not as doubles. Persons who were paired in the drawings announced in Tuesday's paper will actually be opponents.

In the first round of the men's matches, Davis won by default from Lamb, Radcliff beat L. Mader, 4-6, 6-0, 6-0. Given by Harman, 6-1, 6-0; Ray Davis beat Gilmore, 6-1, 6-0; Ted Steele beat Dave May, 6-1, 6-1; Burn Jones won from John Mason by default, and Tom Brunner edged Tom Renick, 6-2, 6-3.

Shakespeare, Third Child

William Shakespeare was the third child in the family. Two daughters who died in infancy were the first and second children. The others were Gilbert, Joan, Anne, Richard and Edmund.

SORE MUSCLES

quickly relieved with "RRR" Rub it in. Stimulates local circulation. Its comforting warmth soothes muscular aches and pains. Used for 87 years to relieve stiff joints, neuralgia and sprains. Reduces inflammation. Penetrates. Does not blister.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF

GAS PAINS

wind colic and stomach distress more quickly relieved with "RRR". The comforting warmth of a teaspoonful in a glass of hot water expels gas and brings you prompt relief. Great for that "morning after" feeling.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

THE MECCA RESTAURANT, sorely handicapped by the illness of George Vlerobone, won its way into a certain playoff for the second half title by defeating the Purina Chows in a lop-sided ball game Tuesday evening. The fray started like the Mecca would finish on the short end although a defeat could not have been scored because the Purinas used two men belonging to other teams.

Scaffold Zeimer put on an exhibition all by himself. It was funny but at the same time pathetic.

Tonight finds the Circleville Oils trying to gain the right to play the Mecca by defeating the Given Oils. Nickerson's outfit will be pressed to defeat the dusky ball players who have proved mighty tough for several teams.

The Red Birds gained again on Indianapolis, Tuesday, winning from the Kesseys while the Millers whipped the Indians. After today's game the Birds go on the road for series with all seven of the other clubs.

The Great Mickey Walker, scourge of the squared-circle for many years, is through: so say 15,000 coast fans who saw him blistered by Young Corbett, ex-welterweight champion—Walker took but one in the ten rounds, but the blows he took on the face, head and body, oh my.

DERBY

One of Derby's older residents, David Minshall, died Tuesday morning. He went to attend to some chickens and several hours later a search for him revealed that he had fallen on his face in the chicken house and was in a serious condition. He was taken to the residence of his nieces, Misses Grace and Dorothy Minshall, where he died Tuesday morning.

Mr. Minshall has been in poor health for quite a while although he managed to get around. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bauhan and Mrs. Charles Timmons, son Tom, and daughter, George Ann were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. White and daughters, Sunday. Mrs. Timmons and children, of Middletown have been visiting at the Bauhan and White homes the past two weeks and will stay until after the fish fry Wednesday.

The Ladies' Aid society will put on their birthmonth supper, Aug. 23. They hope to make it as much a success as they had last year. Each month will have a table and all persons born that month will eat at the same table.

Mrs. Clara Bauhan spent Wednesday with her niece, Mrs. Thelma Noble in Columbus.

Misses Grace and Dorothy Minshall went to Steubenville Friday to visit relatives. They returned Monday, bringing with them their aunt, Mrs. Hannah Cochran, who had been visiting her sons there, and will now visit at the Minshall home. They had only been home a short time when their uncle David was found and brought to their house.

Pituitary Gland's Task Is to Regulate Height

Exercises or Medication Will Not Aid, Doctor Tells Embarrassed Young Man

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

A WORRIED YOUNG man writes, "I am eighteen years of age and desirous of increasing my height. Most of the boys my age are taller than I. I am sensitive about my small stature and have been told that I can become taller by special exercises. Please tell me if this is true?"

First of all I want to say that height cannot be increased by exercises or ordinary medication. Contrary to a popular belief, height is not influenced by heredity factors. In addition, there are several internal glands known as "ductless glands," which govern the mechanism of the body which has to do with growth and development. For example, the "pituitary gland," at the base of the brain, just above the nasal cavity, is intimately related with three important body functions. These are the growth, weight and the regulation of certain organs.

Cause of Dwarfs
When there is marked limitation of the secretions of this gland, growth may be so retarded as to cause an individual actually to be dwarfed in stature. On the other hand, when certain parts of the pituitary gland enlarge and increase the quantity of their secretion, growth may be so stimulated as to result in gigantism. No doubt you have visited the circus and been impressed by the sight of a giant because of some alteration in the function of the pituitary gland. At times, alteration in the secretion of the pituitary gland may bring about marked changes in the physical state. Indeed, in some instances, the condition may menace health all during life. In such cases it may be necessary to consider operative procedure upon the pituitary gland.

ORDER ON FEDERAL PLAN IS ALTERED, FARM BUREAU TOLD

According to word just received from the Corn-Hog Section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration on restrictions on the purchase of feeder pigs from August 1, 1934 to November 30, 1934 are removed under the following conditions:

(a) That contract signer must either keep such purchased feeder pigs separate from hogs produced on the farm, or make them subject to ready identification by ear marks or other reliable means of identification. When compliance is checked the producer must be able to show death losses and sales of such feeder pigs, with records sufficiently comprehensive to permit adequate checking of compliance with respect to hogs, produced for market.

(b) The producer must within one week following the date of any purchase of feeder pigs file with the county allotment committee a statement showing: (1) the date the statement is submitted to the county allotment committee, (2) the date of purchase, (3) name and address of seller, (4) number and average weight of feeder pigs purchased, (5) statement of method used for positive identification throughout the feeding period of feeder pigs. (6) This statement must be signed by the party from which such feeder pigs were bought. This statement to be submitted after purchase of feeder pigs should be on a single sheet of paper with nothing contained thereon except the required information and the signatures of the contract signer and of the seller.

Unless the terms of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this Ruling are strictly complied with, any feeder pigs bought pursuant to this Ruling which remain on hand on the date that compliance is checked, or which have been marketed prior to such date, will be considered as hogs produced for market from 1934 litters.

Concha

A concha, meaning shell, was originally a shell-shaped ornament, usually silver, though sometimes of leather. It is a common adornment for saddles, bridles, and chaps in the Southwest, and is also the name given to the button-like ornament that conceals the clasp on the lower leg of tight-fitting Mexican trousers.—Literary Digest.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 1/4 of our food decays in our 25 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomato, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—20¢. ©1934, C.M.Co.

Administration Fears Drouth to Skyrocket Prices of All Food

WASHINGTON—Ebullient official assurances that there is no danger of a food shortage as a result of the drouth tell only half the story. Unquestionably the statements are correct—as far as they go.

It is true there will be no real dearth of basic food commodities. There is plenty of grain, and too many cattle. But that is not the real question.

The crux of the drouth problem is not whether there will be enough food, but what will be its price.

Behind every official assurance of plentiful food reserves there is

Colorado Vigilantes Ride Again

The "vigilante" movement that meted out justice in the raw frontier west of the last century and appeared again during the depression has flared up in southern Colorado. Here is a scene at Pueblo, where six effigies of local "public enemies", alleged robbers and bootleggers, were hanged from a tree in a cemetery where many "who died with their boots on" were buried.

an unspoken fear of price-kiting. This possibility is now one of the major concerns of the Administration. It was the subject of important discussion at the President's first cabinet meeting upon his return to Washington.

AAA officials say privately that increases in the price of meat, milk, and dairy products are practically certain.

As a matter of fact, milk producers already have begun agitation for higher rates, claiming that the increased cost of feed has appreciably boosted their expenses.

In what way, and to what extent, the problem should and can be met is still undecided.

The Government's huge purchases of cattle in drouth-stricken areas is being seized upon by some of the President's advisers as offering a means of curbing meat prices.

The Government, they point out, will establish a large meat reserve which could be put on the market at moderate prices, thus helping to prevent excessive price jacking.

More remedies than this, however, will be necessary.

DAVEY-DONAHEY VERSUS BROWN-FESS

EX-STATE OFFICIAL LEADER

Leaves West, White Far in Rear as Davey Surprises by Holding Edge Over Sawyer With Many Precincts Out; Brown Doubles Morgan.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15.—Far out in front and going strong, former Gov. Vic Donahey, nominated by Ohio Democrats to oppose Republican Sen. Simeon D. Fess in the November election, pushed his own plurality over Gov. George White and Congressman Charles West, above the 84,000 mark in latest returns tabulated today.

Donahey's vote from 7,668 of Ohio's 8,552 precincts stood at 231,101, while White and West ran neck and neck, the former polling 146,224 and the latter 146,801.

Republican voters registered their approval of Sen. Simeon D. Fess, severe critic of the Roosevelt recovery program, by re-nominating him by a margin of 170,000 votes over his nearest opponent, Judge Walter Wanamaker, Akron.

DAVEY GAINING

Martin L. Davey, Kent, former congressman, appeared to have the Democratic gubernatorial nomination clinched. His total from 7,668 precincts stood at 190,238, as compared with 171,522 for Lieut. Gov. Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, and 159,256 for William G. Pickrel, Dayton.

Clarence Brown, former secretary of state, far outstripped a field of six opponents for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Brown's vote from 7,774 precincts was 309,137, while Daniel E. Morgan, former Cleveland city manager, in second place, had only 149,114.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15.—Given a huge plurality by Ohio Democrats in the primary, "Honest Vic" Donahey, governor from 1922 to 1928, will oppose Republican Sen. Simeon D. Fess in the November election for the right to represent the Buckeye state in the U. S. senate.

With returns far from complete the count today showed Donahey with almost twice the vote of either of his primary opponents. Congressman Charles West, reputed to have had the tacit endorsement of the Roosevelt administration, and Gov. George White.

White, who was running third but not far behind Congressman West, has conceded the nomination to Donahey and wired him congratulations.

HUGE FESS VOTE
Republicans, in re-nominating Senator Fess, bitter critic of the "New Deal," gave him a tremendous vote, far exceeding the combined poll of his four opponents, Judge Walter Wanamaker, Akron; John M. Vorys, Columbus; Gen. Jacob S. Coxey, Massillon, and Edward Lamb, Toledo.

Martin L. Davey, Kent, former congressman, and Clarence Brown, Blanchester, former secretary of state, were leading the Democratic and Republican gubernatorial races, respectively.

Brown's nomination seemed certain, for his vote was more than twice that of Daniel E. Morgan, former Cleveland city manager, his nearest opponent. Of the five other Republican gubernatorial aspirants only John A. Elden, Cleveland, and C. Nelson Sparks, made any appreciable showing.

Davey forged ahead in the Democratic race for governor as the count of the state's 8,552 precincts approached the halfway point. He took the lead from Lieut. Gov. Charles Sawyer who had held it continuously up to then, but Davey's nomination was by no means assured. Nor was William G. Pickrel, Dayton, former governor, out of the race.

On the tabulation of 4,468 precincts Davey, in first place had accounted for only 6,828 more votes than Pickrel in third place and only 4,343 more than Sawyer in second place.

UP TO CUYAHOGA

Cuyahoga county, unusually slow in reporting its vote because of the cumbersome ballots weighted down with the names of more than 200 candidates for various offices there, could easily turn the tide either to Sawyer or Pickrel. Sawyer was reported to be especially strong there, but the first 400 Cuyahoga precincts showed otherwise.

SELECT VINCENT

Joe Vincent, incumbent, was nominated for sheriff of Ross county over his former deputy, Ben Rout, and several others. Charles Fox was named on the Republican ticket.

RANSOM READY FOR RETURN OF RICH CANADIAN

$150,000 Demanded As 'Snatch' Racket Invades Provinces

BROTHER TO ACT

Threat of Death is Penned In Letter

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 15.—With the life of the victim believed at stake, London and provincial police today waited developments in the payment of the $150,000 ransom in the kidnaping yesterday of John S. Labatt, wealthy brewer, to spur them on to greater activity in solving Canada's first challenge to the law.

Developments today, twenty-four hours after Labatt disappeared while on his way from his summer home at Sarnia Beach, Ont., to his office here, were centering in Toronto where Hugh Labatt, younger brother of the kidnaped brewer, is awaiting instructions from the kidnappers.

HAS RANSOM MONEY

Hugh Labatt, it is understood here, has the ransom money with him. Shortly after he arrived in Toronto yesterday afternoon, he visited the Bank of Nova Scotia. It was reported. He had preceded to Toronto by a route supposedly laid out by the kidnappers in their note.

Vincent T. Foley, London attorney and spokesman for the family, announced early today that the family had disregarded the warning and asked the cooperation of Canadian authorities, the United States department of justice and the Detroit police in solving the crime.

Foley, speaking for Mrs. Labatt, who is prostrated and under a physicians care here, declined to reveal the exact contents of the ransom note but said its contents "were so fantastic as to be almost unbelievable."

The note was found under the seat of the brewer's abandoned automobile and cautioned the family not to report the kidnaping to police on pain of death to the victim. The note was signed "Three-Fingered Abe."

Hugh was accompanied to Toronto by Louis McCaghey, sales manager for the brewery. McCaghey is reported to be well known in the underworld of Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago. Durney.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Three major operations were performed at Berger hospital Tuesday. Persons who underwent the operations included Mrs. Mary Donohue, W. High-st., Frank Bloomfield, S. Washington-st., and William Good, of Circleville R. F. D. 4, the latter a tonsilectomy.

Miss Marguerite Mowery, of Williamsport R. F. D. 3, was discharged from the hospital, Wednesday.

Mrs. Gordon Freymuth, of Mt. Sterling, is in Berger hospital for observation.

DEFEATS EIGHT

Mrs. Marlan Lutz ran two to one better than her nearest opponent to win the Democratic nomination for recorder.

Veterans Meet

Veteran politicians, Davey and Brown will meet in November to decide who shall be governor of this state. Davey was apparently nominated over Sawyer and Pickrel and Brown over Morgan, Sparks and several others.

TOWN VOTES BOND ISSUE

$32,000 For Sewerage System To Be Raised By Issue In Ashville.

In the largest vote ever cast in an Ashville primary election, the $32,000 bond issue for sanitary sewerage and sewerage treatment plant for the village carried by more than eight to one.

The vote by precincts follows: East precinct: For bond issue, 186; against bond issue, 17.

West precinct: For bond issue, 150; against bond issue, 23.

Summaries: For bond issue, 166; against bond issue, 40.

majority, 326.

WASHINGTON, C. H., Aug. 15.—The voters of Washington C. H. today stood 1,536 to 1,064 against the proposition of building a new high school here. A proposed bond issue for the school was rejected at yesterday's primary election.

BANDIT WOUNDED IN OHIO ROBBERY

PERRYSBURG, Aug. 15.—One of three bandits who held up the state highway garage at Findlay early this morning was shot and seriously wounded here today by a trio of Findlay policemen who overtook the gunmen after a hot 40-mile pursuit.

The bandits' car ran over a curb in Perrysburg and crashed into a tree. When the three men attempted to get out, the officers sent a hail of bullets after them, hitting one. The other two escaped.

Only $20 was taken in the garage holdup, according to John Howe.

DONAHEY, FESS DUEL TO DRAW NATION'S EYES

New Deal Splits as West is Beaten and Burke Comes Through

BRYAN IS DEFEATED

White House May Aid Donahey's Cause

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The Roosevelt New Deal got a draw decision in yesterday's Democratic senatorial primaries, it appeared today.

The administration backed two candidates—Rep. Edward R. Burke in Nebraska, against Gov. Charles W. "Brother Charlie" Bryan, and Rep. Charles West in Ohio, against Gov. George White and ex-Gov. Vic Donahey. Burke won, but West did not, the Ohio nomination going to "Honest Vic," who has been three times governor of the state.

100 PER CENTERS

Burke in Nebraska and West in Ohio were both branded as 100 per cent New Dealers. It was Burke's quotation, analyzing the New Deal, that President Roosevelt quoted in his speech at Green Bay last week. Burke's description of it was that it was "as old as Christian ethics."

West was injected into the Ohio campaign late and as a direct result of White House encouragement. For some reason, still unexplained, the administration appeared not to relish the idea of either Gov. White or Donahey being in the Senate. Ex-Gov. James M. Cox, with whom President ran on the national ticket in 1920, was summoned to Washington and there were lengthy conferences.

The upshot of these conferences was that Congressman West, 39-year-old professor, serving his second term in congress, and little known outside his own district, was projected into the race.

The result in Ohio insures a red-hot contest in November between Donahey and Senator Simeon D. Fess, 73, who walked away with the Republican nomination. Fess has been one of the most consistent and persistent critics of administration policies.

PROMOTED BURKE

As for West in Ohio, the administration did everything it could, although quietly, to promote Burke's nomination. The administration did not want "Brother Charlie" in the Senate, for he has been a frequent critic of New Deal policies, particularly the AAA. He once described this branch of the New Deal as "slitting the farmer's throat from ear to ear."

TRACTOR PARTY TO REMAIN WITH BYRD

LITTLE AMERICA, Antietam, Aug. 15.—By Mackay radio. P. will be sometime before Admiral Richard E. Byrd is well enough to return from his lonely base 123 miles south of here with the tractor party which effected his rescue Friday.

A brief radio message from Dr. Thomas C. Poulter who led the tractor party on the dark and dangerous journey confirmed assumptions that Admiral Byrd had been ill for a long time. The message said:

"We shall stay here until Admiral Byrd feels able to travel. Our presence here and the fact that we have relieved him of the physical details incidental to his solitary confinement have already lifted a great weight off his shoulders. He is remarkably cheerful."

Spangler on Ticket

W. I. Spangler, Tarlton was nominated with August Weber to represent the Democratic party in the senatorial contest in Tuesday's voting.

They will oppose Paul Ginnard and Robert Pfeiffer. Spangler received 1,562 votes here and Weber got 1,266.

BIRTHS

A nine and one-half pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ellisworth Comand, E. Mount-st., at the hospital, Monday.

Two More Years

CHARLES RADCLIFF

Paying him in scores of votes for the fine service he and his deputies have done for Pickaway-co during the past forty years, Pickaway-co electors assured the popular sheriff of two more years in office, Tuesday. Radcliff's vote was 3,608 against 1,092. Although he had opposition Radcliff led the Democratic ticket.

FARLEY LAUDS VIC DONAHEY

Sends Congratulations From Washington to Democratic Senate Choice.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Congratulating former Gov. A. V. Donahey of Ohio on his victory in the Democratic senatorial primary, Postmaster General Farley today predicted "Honest Vic" would win a similar triumph over Senator Fess, Republican incumbent, in the fall election.

"Congratulations on your victory," said Farley in a telegram to Donahey. "When you come to the Senate in January, backed as you will be by the united Democracy of Ohio, I am certain the progressive legislation of the Roosevelt administration will find in you an ardent and entire supporter. Sincere regards."

PUMPKIN SHOW SOCIETY MEETS

The regular meeting of the Pumpkin show society will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the council chamber. Much business of importance is scheduled, Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary, said today.

Result of G.O.P. Voting Brings Smiles & Dismay

THE fact that Clarence J. Brown won Pickaway-co from Daniel Morgan caused pleasing results in some sections and some not so pleasing in others. It seems that the party's organization leaders, former Senator C. C. Chapplear and John E. Walters, the generalissimo of the G. O. P., took unto their bosoms Mr. Morgan, recognized as a mighty good man.

While the county committees were not asked to endorse any candidate or candidates for the nomination it seemed rather strange to some of the party's supporters that the two chairmen should campaign for Mr. Morgan. Naturally there was some talk, especially among those who favored Mr. Brown.

The Florence family, Miss Anna and Col. George, did all they could for Clarence J., and so did former Mayor B. T. Hedges, who has always been a Brown admirer. Hedges was in the election board office just before the final precinct came in this morning, and with his shirt open at the neck and a cane in his hand, he was grinning from ear to ear. "We'll show 'em," said the ex-official who was beaten as mayor and promoted into a better job in State Treasurer Harry Day's office, but just what he means by "we'll show 'em" he didn't say.

Just how much work was done in Mr. Morgan's favor was seen in Circleville-twp. Chairman Walters' own bailiwick, where Brown received but one vote, Morgan:

MISS DUNGAN IS DEFEATED; MELL WINNER

Lancaster Woman Takes Three of Five Counties for Victory

MADER RUNS THIRD

Claypool Retains His Post on Committee

Polling a majority of 1,443 votes, Miss Josephine Justus, of Lancaster, defeated Miss Jemima Dungan, E. Mill-st., for the position of state central committee woman from the 11th congressional district, it was revealed today in a checkup of counties in the district.

The vote in the five counties was: Miss Justus, 8,218, and Miss Dungan, 6,775.

Congressman Mell G. Underwood, of New Lexington, was re-nominated by the Democratic voters of the district for congress, and Garrett S. Claypool, Chillicothe, attorney, was elected for a second term as Democratic state central committee man from the district.

VOTES COMPARED

In defeating Miss Dungan for a second term, Miss Justus carried three of the five counties, Fairfield, Hocking, and Perry. The vote in each of the counties was: Pickaway, Miss Dungan, 1,565; Miss Justus, 1,113; Ross, Miss Dungan, 1,813; Miss Justus, 1,558; Fairfield, Miss Dungan, 1,722; Miss Justus, 3,450; Hocking, Miss Dungan, 935; Miss Justus, 1,002; Perry, Miss Dungan, 740; Miss Justus, 1,095.

John P. Phillips, Jr., Chillicothe attorney, was named Republican state central committee man from the district to succeed Milton J. Scott, who was a candidate for secretary of state. Totals in the counties were incomplete, but Phillips' overwhelming majority in Ross-co gave him the position.

Dr. James M. Lantz, of Lancaster, ran second to Congressman Underwood in the district, the poll revealed, although Hocking-co had not been reported at press time.

HOGS HIT $6 MARK

Hogs weighing 200 to 300 pounds sold at $6 per hundred weight at the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative pens Wednesday. Harry Briggs says it's because Davey and Donahey were nominated.

SHERIFF TOPS TICKET; TREASURY RACE WARM

County Goes to Davey, Brown, Donahey and Fess With Record Vote Cast; Official Count Being Made by Board of Elections.

Circleville and Pickaway-co voters looked back on the results of their handiwork today and viewed the following nominations:

Charles Radcliff for a third term as sheriff over John G. "Doggy" Ward, Jr., by a margin of more than 2,400 votes in the unofficial tabulation.

Robert G. Colville for treasurer over Earl Hoffman, incumbent, seeking his third term, and Frank Anderson, the losers finishing in the order named. Colville's drive to the top was one of the most interesting angles to an election here in recent years, but more about that later.

Marian Rowe Lutz for recorder to succeed Mary G. Morris, not a candidate. Mrs. Lutz in a field of nine Democratic candidates more than doubled the score of her nearest opponent, Alice Roof.

HUNSICKER AHEAD

Clark K. Hunsicker for representative to the general assembly seat now held by Nathan A. Bohnert, retiring incumbent, over Ansel Crowover, Nelson Reichelderfer and H. M. Crites who finished two-three-four behind the Deer creek-twp-W. Union-st resident. Hunsicker will meet Marion Senbrenner who was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Hilda Burns over Hulda Redd for the Republican nomination in an interesting contest. The chase was nip and tuck from the start with Miss Burns gradually slipping ahead until the first ward cast gave her 76 to 24 to clinch the effort. The race was the first advent in politics for the two local misses and both did themselves proud.

The county voted overwhelmingly for Vic Donahey for senator giving him more than 3,000 edge over White and West; backed Davey's candidacy for governor with an unofficial edge of 337 over Sawyer with Pickrel a very poor third;

supported Clarence Brown's candidacy for the G. O. P. nomination giving him 841 against 655 for Morgan in the unchecked tally. All county candidates running unopposed received a nice complement of votes with Judge J. W. Adkins getting 3,465 to top the ticket although Sheriff Charles Radcliff set a precedent when he set a record of 3,608 with opposition.

Other unopposed candidates besides Judge Adkins were: A. L. Wilder for clerk of courts, 3,160; John W. Hay for commissioner, 2,950; C. E. Wright for Republican commissioner, 1,170; Clifford M. White for Democratic auditor, 3,194; Forrest Short, for Republican auditor, 1,138; C. E. Bowers' name written in for coroner, 400 (whether this figure was sufficient to put him on the ballot had not been certified today by the election board); Ray W. Davis, Republican for prosecutor, 1,284; G. D. Phillips, for G. O. P. coroner, 1,099; George Pickard, written in for treasurer, 451 (this figure is believed sufficient for the ballot but will not be officially known until the board of elections acts).

Mr. Weldon has been named executor without bond. Judge C. C. Young appointed John Boggs, George P. Foreman, and W. Graham, appraisers of the estate.

ance to gain the nomination with this connection one of his suits. He encountered unexpected opposition from Mr. Crowder for a while but gradually edged ahead. An official check all probably be necessary before is certain whether Reichelderfer. Crites finished third although the outcome will have no effect on the leader.

Hunsicker's unofficial edge over Dunlap is 377.

DUNLAP BY 1,000

Renick Dunlap, running for the republican nomination for congress, had easy sailing over Tom White, of Fairfield-co., at least as far as Pickaway was concerned gathering 1,226 against 259 for his opponent. Mr. Dunlap's ability as a campaigner gave him an advantage.

Mrs. Marian Lutz, widowed mother of four children, was early a walk-away for the republican nomination. At no time in the course of reports from various precincts was she in danger of falling by the wayside. She carried on a strenuous campaign which bore fruit to the tune of 329 votes. The other candidates, unofficially, finished in the following order: Alice Roof, 642; Leonard Schleich, 533; Elizabeth Kline, 492; James Thomas, 463; Luther Bower, 385; Oscar Woelke, 25, and Lester J. Hall, 210.

Now to get down to the race that proved the feature of the election, that for the Democratic nomination for treasurer. First it was Hoffman in the lead, then Anderson and finally Bob Colville, or whom it appeared somewhat dark in the early stages of the campaign. Colville regained in the city more the number of votes he lost in the county. This man, a hard working member of the board of education, and who had five candidates for positions on that board a couple of years ago, proved his popularity by corraling 768 votes in Circleville against 561 for Hoffman and 454 for Anderson, a goodly number taking into consideration that Mr. Anderson has not been a resident of Circleville for a long time.

Anderson had some parts of the county in the palm of his hand, while Hoffman had others. Col-

vile's nomination was assured when the first ward cast reported with 111 votes for him, 75 for Hoffman and only 16 for Anderson.

RACE INTERESTING

The runaway Sheriff Radcliff made of his race astounded even his closest advisors. Former Deputy Sheriff Ward had based his campaign upon Radcliff's effort to obtain a third term, and upon his own qualifications. Radcliff based his campaign on his record in office which now stands at not a single major crime in the county unsolved. When the first returns came into the election board office it was apparent that the contest, if there was any, was ended. Radcliff didn't lose a single precinct and added humiliation to the defeat by grabbing 86 votes to four for Ward in New Holland, and 138 to 15 in Harrison in addition to 106 to 12 in Madison-town where all the folks voted for Charlie mostly because Bryan Custer, a township favorite, is his chief deputy.

Ward was facing unsurmountable odds in opposing Radcliff with such a record behind him but he waged a strong campaign and had even the sheriff worried the day before the election. It will be impossible to disclose the exact number of votes cast during the day until the election board makes its official count sometime within the next day. It is believed the primary brought out a modern record.

Inventor of Radio

Although many inventors were at work on the theory of wireless, Mahlon Loomis, an American, successfully transmitted signals between two kites about 1895 and patented his system in 1872. He failed to develop it, however, and Guglielmo Marconi, who patented and put to practical use his system of wireless communication in 1895, is considered its inventor or discoverer. Dr. Lee De Forest is regarded as the father of the modern radio as he perfected the audio tube, in 1916, through which the voice was successfully transmitted. First regular radio broadcasts were made from KDKA, in Pittsburgh, in the fall of 1919. Pathfinder Magazine.

Family friends also expressed the fear today that the wealthy brewer might not survive the kidnapping, pointing out that he has suffered severe heart attacks lately and that another attack might prove fatal.

Labatt was "snatched" yesterday while driving from his summer home on Lake Huron to London, a distance of 65 miles. Three hours after his departure, a stranger telephoned the brewing company and asked for Hugh. Told Hugh had not arrived, the stranger bluntly informed Hugh's stenographer: "Tell him his brother has been kidnapped."

A few minutes later, Hugh Labatt was contacted by the kidnaper at his home and given a similar message. He believed it a joke until the man identified himself as "Three Fingers Abe" and said John Labatt's car would be found three blocks from the home, near St. Joseph's hospital.

"The abductor told me to raise $150,000 at once for John's release," Hugh is quoted as telling Detective Inspector Thomas Bolton. "He said a note detailing instructions would be found in the car. He told me he had seen John yesterday in Detroit, thus indicating my brother was being followed prior to the crime."

Accompanied by local police, the brother found the car as promised and also the penciled ransom note.

Special Offer to Contestants

In order to assist those who have already entered The Salesmanship Club to get a good start and as a special inducement for more members to enter the following extra vote offer is made, 240,000 extra votes, in addition to the regular schedule of votes as shown on covers of receipt books will be credited for each and every $30 worth of subscriptions turned in from the beginning of the campaign up until Saturday night, August 25. Both old and new subscriptions will count on this biggest voting opportunity of the campaign. After this date subscriptions will count by far less votes, and positively at no future time in the campaign will they count as many votes as they will during this period.

The awarding of the prizes at the end of the campaign will be made strictly on a vote basis, and not necessarily on the number of subscriptions or the amount of money turned in. Therefore it will be to every member's advantage to get in every one possible while they count the most votes. Without a doubt the member who takes full advantage of this big extra vote offer will have a decided advantage to win first prize. More members are needed in the campaign as only a few who have entered have made any active start. A hustler can enter now, during this banner vote period and win any prize in the list. The entry books will soon be closed to new members, and anyone who might be thinking of entering should send in their name at once.

Time to Forget

NOW that the primary campaign is over and rivalries have been settled, leaders in both parties in Ohio have a job of healing to do before the fall campaign gets under way.

Democratic county leaders wisely have indicated their intention to reconcile disappointed candidates and factions in order to insure united party action in November.

Democratic editors likewise are counselling harmony and expressing confidence that differences can be patched up as they have been in other years when the primary strife was not quite as intense as it has been this year.

They point out that in a period when problems to be entrusted to elected officials are most important, and good government offers the only hope of solution, minds of voters should not be further confused by carrying over personalities and petty factionalism into the fall canvass.

Now that they have come to the time for cooling off we would remind candidates and their friends who let their ambitions and emotions carry them away that fair and friendly rivalry within a political party is beneficial. Contests conducted upon a high plane of sportsmanship tend to develop keen popular interest and to assure greater participation by the electorate in decisions determined at the polls.

Dad's pants are no longer cut down for Willy. Sister needs them for shorts.

Work for President

IT was to be expected that the return of President Roosevelt from Hawaii would offer an opportunity for many rumors and reports bearing upon governmental policies. Such has proved to be the case.

One of the rumors is that the president may call congress into special session to deal with some of the problems that have grown acute during his absence.

There probably is no basis for this report. The unprecedented range of powers delegated to the president by dealing with almost any question that may arise. Unless he should be reluctant to take the responsibility, therefore, there seems to be no need for his summoning congress to his assistance.

Among the matters which appear to need early constructive attention labor unrest stands out as a conspicuous one. The legislation enacted by the last session of congress in the hope that it would serve to discourage strikes and would make for peace in industry has not yet had sufficient time to demonstrate its value. Another problem confronting the president is that growing out of the death of Calum.

Calm, reasoned judgment is demanded by the problems now pressing for attention. The president, rested and refreshed mentally and physically, should be able to give them the treatment they need.

The two branches of the family probably split when the monkeys couldn't learn to kill one another.

SYNOPSIS

Diane Carroll—young artist and wealthy orphan, more interested in her work than society—visits the little village of Pine Knob in the Ozarks. Her sunny disposition melts the usual frigidities of the mountaineers towards strangers and they accept her as one of the "home" folks—all except Ann Haskel, whose word is law in Pine Knob. Diane, nevertheless, is fascinated by Ann about whom she has heard conflicting stories of generosity and hardness. The mountain woman seems to be ailing Diane, but her good-for-nothing cousin, Jeff, follows the artist everywhere. Ann has a son of her own, John Herbert Haskel, whom she sent away years ago, following the death of her first husband. Diane's best friends among the mountaineers are "Uncle Jimmie" and "Aunt Josie" Cartwright who have promised to protect her from the annoying Jeff. One day, Ann comes upon Diane painting in Shady Creek Valley and brusquely asks: "What be you a-doin' here?" Diane apologizes for trespassing. Ann's demeanor changes immediately and she says: "You're welcome. I got sense to see you ain't a-hurtin' nobody." Seemingly relaxed and grow more friendly, Ann confides in Diane that, while the people of the woods are better than the society folk at the Lodge, still the backwoods would be no place to raise young folks who could be something if given a chance. Diane realizes that the mountain woman was revealing more of her life than she intended and the girl's heart went out to her.

CHAPTER IX

The younger woman wanted to speak of the boy that Ann Haskel had sent away no one knew where nor why. But before she could find words the other said, harshly: "What's a chance for a boy? What's had your chance to be a-doin' sich triflin' play-work as this hysyer pitcher-paintin'." If I had a girl like you I'd sure make out fer her to know how to do somethin' that war real.

Diane launched again into a defense of her art.

"Hit all sounds purty to hysyer you a-tellin' hit. But can't nobody set a pitcher, can they? Can't nobody wear 'em. A pitcher of a cow couldn't give no milk. You can't have no cawn from a pitcher of a cawnfild. A pitcher first would warm a body if they was freezin'. Hit don't make no difference how hard you work at hit you can't never make a pitcher real. Hit's all just make-believe. You jest natchally say hit's paintin' a pitcher. You like they be. You're here to leave out the song of the birds an' the smell of the trees an' bresh an' ferns. You can't paint the rustlin' of the leaves an' the feel of the sun an' wind into no pitcher. I like to deal with things that air real. I want my wood like Gawd made 'em. I don't want no make-believe woods with all the life left out."

"But, Mrs. Haskel, you believe in education, don't you? Isn't the world of music and art and— and thought— isn't it all as real as the world you know about?"

"Education is what a body makes of hit," retorted the other, stubbornly. "Folks what's got education air all kinds, same as the world what air. Look at you, a Lodge folks. You've got education, an' what be you? That man I was a-tellin' you 'bout, he war educated too, an' couldn't nobody help believin' in sich as him. He sure war'n no triffin' pretender. He did things like a man ought."

"What's that your friend do?" asked Diane, quickly. "Tell me about him. Perhaps I have heard of him. Perhaps my father knew him."

Ann Haskel rose hurriedly to her feet. "I got to be a-goin'," she said, harshly. "Can't stay hear all day a-tellin' with you. I got real work to do."

With this she crossed to the opposite side of the glade and disappeared behind some bushes which hid a pocket-like hollow in the side of the mountain. A moment later she reappeared, riding the big bay horse.

"What a beautiful horse!" Diane exclaimed. "I have often admired him from a distance."

The mountain woman halted close beside the artist, and the horse, putting down his head, nudged the

the only livin' thing I know what even pretends with me that a way."

"I should like to paint him," said Diane. "What you let me make a picture of him for you? I don't mean for money," she added, impulsively, "but just because—well—because I'd love to do it."

"What would I want a pitcher of Billy for when I got him? I couldn't ride a rock or a bush. He's allus wouldn't talk to me, ner he'd git 'round, ner rub his haid ag'in' me like he's a-doin' to you right now."

"Oh, but you're very fond of Billy, aren't you?"

"Hit stands to reason I'd be. He's a good boss. We been together a long time, too."

"Well, if anything should happen to make you lose him, wouldn't you like a picture of him to— to help you remember him?"

"Thar ain't nothin' goin' to happen to make me lose Billy," retorted the mountain woman, returned, grimly. "I aim to keep him right with me always. Ain't nobody ever goin' to take him away. He's only a boss, but he means as much to me as if he war human."

"But what if he were to die?"

"If Billy war to die I reckon I'd jest have to git me another boss in his place," returned Ann Haskel, slowly. That hard, uncompromising look settled like a dark shadow over her face as she continued, harshly: "But that's some things, miss, what can't nobody ever take the place of— not to satisfy, I mean."

Again Diane thought of Ann Haskel's son and of Jeff Todd, whom she had raised in her own boy's place.

The mountain woman went on in a dreamy monotone: "When a body can't have what they want they take what they can git, don't they? When you can't do what you want, you do what you can. All my life I been a-puttin' up with what I could git an' a-doin' what I had to. Thank you kindly fer your offer, miss, but you couldn't paint no pitcher of my boss fer me. You couldn't never know him well enough. I raised him from a colt. I already got a pitcher of him in my mind what's better'n anybody could paint. If I couldn't have Billy hissef, I sure wouldn't want no pitcher of him that would jest natchally be bound to leave out all what he really is to me. So I reckon I'll keep the pitcher I already got."

Diane stood at a window of the Lodge, looking out at the rain. A slow drizzle had set in the afternoon of the previous day. Some time during the night a roaring downpour had developed, but by daybreak, again, the storm had passed, leaving in its wake leaden clouds and dripping mist.

On a fair day one could see from that window a beautiful stretch of river leading like a silver stream, silver between the green forest walls to a narrow valley which lost

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE is a little difference in the way the girls look at things now. Maybe the girls now have got the right idea and their mas were all wrong. I don't know. But anyway, it's different.

I heard about a nice old lady that cried over her daughter at the wedding and everything, just like she'd been cried over herself. Then when the wedding supper was all eat up and everything, the ma went to daughter and says, "Now, before you start on your trip, if I was you I'd take that wedding dress and lay it away in a box with lavender. I done that with the goods it's made of, you know, after my wedding, and it'd be nice if you'd save it for your daughter's wedding, too."

"Daughter, your foot!" says daughter. "I'll put it away all right, but I want to save it for my own wedding! When I get through with it, I shall have it. I can't have it there's anything left. Why, ma, of things that you-all used to, when you only used things once we girls got a lot more good out of them than you."

Percentage Profit

"For cent" or "per centum" means "by the hundred." A "percentage" is a rate per cent. If an article costs a dollar and sells for two dollars, the profit is 100 per cent of the cost price; if it sells for more than two dollars, the profit is more

DETROIT SEEMS "IN" TROUNCING YANKEES

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Detroit's great town. Nice people. Fine hotels. Delightful weather in early October. Swell place to see part of a world series. And Frank Navin's a genial host. Frank owns the ball club and will be glad to accept your reservations.

Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, had some idea of playing host to the visiting firemen this October. But that was before Frank's battling Bengals twice knocked off Col. Jake's Yanks, 9 to 5 and 7 to 3.

It wasn't so much the fact that they won two games as the easy way in which they did it that convinced some 77,000 of the natives that Mr. Navin's Bengals are not to be denied this year.

LEAD LENGTHENED

Certainly not with a 6 1-2 game lead. And that's what they boast today with only 44 games left to play.

Incidentally, the Bengals ran their winning streak to fourteen games and Schaboy Rowe ran his individual string to thirteen straight when he set down the locals with four hits in the nightcap.

When Gomez and Crowder were announced for the first game it appeared as if Mickey Cochrane were making a smart move in conceding a game with an old pitcher who wouldn't mind a beating.

The Yanks got to the old general for five runs in three heats and then, five frames the battling Bengals were baffled Bengals as they stood there helpless before the left-handed wizardry of the goofy Castilian.

Then came the deluge. Without warning, and seemingly without effort, the Bengals tore into Gomez, buried him under a five run barrage and then in the next heat went out and pinned young Jimmy Deshong's ears back.

RUFFING HIT, TOO

Red Ruffing was nominated to lead a lost cause for the Yanks in the nightcap and if strikeouts won ball games, he would have been all right. But in among Red's eleven strikeouts the Bengals inserted a dozen blows, three of which went to Charley Gehring whose record for the day was four hits, two homers and six runs driven across the plate.

There may be better ball players than Gehring but the writer doesn't know who they are and I don't think anybody else does.

Huge Douglas Fir Trees

In the lower altitude of Mt. Rainier National park are dense forests of Douglas fir trees, some of them 500 to 700 years old, with diameters ranging up to 8 feet, and height around 200 feet, many of them rising about 100 feet to the first limb.

Practice for Notre Dame Game?

This big anti-aircraft rifle at Fortress Monroe, Va., is shown being manned by Jack Buckner, left, of Waco, Tex., Army's outstanding football star, and Joe Stancok, of Mineville, N. Y., captain-elect of the Kaydet eleven for 1935. Suppose they are working up a defense for an aerial attack by Notre Dame?

RED BIRD SCHOOL TO START MONDAY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15.—Although the Columbus Red Birds are to be out of town on a trip around the entire American Association, there will be plenty of baseball at the Red Bird Stadium next week. The Red Birds are to conduct a school for young baseball players from Monday through Saturday and enough applicants have already been accepted to make up an entire league.

"School" is open to any boy 17 years of age or over who has either been selected by a qualified representative of the Birds or who is recommended by a responsible party. Four states and 35 Ohio towns are represented by the amateur and semi-pro players who have asked to try out during the coming week.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

THE MECCA RESTAURANT, sorely handicapped by the illness of George Vlerobone, won its way into a certain playoff for the second half title by defeating the Purina Chows in a lop-sided ball game Tuesday evening. The fray started like the Mecca would finish on the short end although a defeat could not have been scored because the Purinas used two men belonging to other teams.

Scatfold Zeimer put on an exhibition all by himself. It was funny but at the same time pathetic.

Tonight finds the Circleville Oils trying to gain the right to play the Mecca by defeating the Given Oils. Nickerson's outfit will be pressed to defeat the dusky ball players who have proved mighty tough for several teams.

The Red Birds gained again on Indianapolis, Tuesday, winning from the Kaseys while the Millers whipped the Indians. After today's game the Birds go on the road for series with all seven of the other clubs.

The Great Mickey Walker, scourge of the squared-circle for many years, is through: so say 15,000 coast fans who saw him bludgeoned by Young Corbett, ex-welterweight champion. Walker took but one in the ten rounds, but the blows he took on the face, head and body, oh my.

DERBY

One of Derby's older residents, David Minshall, died Tuesday morning. He went to attend to some chickens and several hours later a search for him revealed that he had fallen on his face in the chicken house and was in serious condition. He was taken to the residence of his nieces, Misses Grace and Dorothy Minshall, where he died Tuesday morning.

Mr. Minshall has been in poor health for quite a while although he managed to get around.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bauhan and Mrs. Charles Timmons, son Tom, and daughter, George Ann were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. White and daughters, Sunday.

Mrs. Timmons and children, of Middletown have been visiting at the Bauhan and White homes the past two weeks and will stay until after the fish fry Wednesday.

The Ladies' Aid society will put on their birthmonth supper, Aug. 23. They hope to make it as much of a success as they had last year. Each month will have a table and all persons born that month will eat at the same table.

Mrs. Clara Bauhan spent Wednesday with her niece, Mrs. Thelma Noble in Columbus.

Misses Grace and Dorothy Minshall went to Steubenville Friday to visit relatives. They returned Monday, bringing with them their aunt, Mrs. Hannah Cochran, who had been visiting her sons there, and will now visit at the Minshall home. They had only been home a short time when their uncle David was found and brought to their home.

SINGLES MATCHES AND NOT DOUBLES

The ladies' tennis tournament, booked at the Pickaway Country club will be played in singles matches and not as doubles. Persons who were paired in the drawings announced in Tuesday's paper will actually be opponents.

In the first round of the men's matches, Davis won by default from Lamb, Radcliff beat L. Mader 4-6, 6-0, 6-0; Given by Harman, 6-1, 6-0; Ray Davis beat Gilmore, 6-1, 6-0; Ted Steele beat Dave May, 6-1, 6-1; Burn Jones won from John Mason by default, 6-0; Tom Brunner edged Tom Renick, 6-2, 6-3.

Shakespeare, Third Child

William Shakespeare was the third child in the family. Two daughters who died in infancy were the first and second children. The others were Gilbert, Joan, Anne, Richard and Edward.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a fellow from my country, out in Oklahoma, that went to New York and had a pretty pack up to go home, he remembered that he had forgot all about buying a present for his wife. So he went into the pet store that was right around the corner from his hotel, and he began looking at things. He had been buying himself a lot of stuff in a speakeasy, so he wasn't sure just what all the things in the store were. Things was going around and around quite a little.

But he saw a real bright-colored parrot setting on a perch, and it attracted his attention. It kinda furnished him a center of gravity, and he felt good. He walked up to the parrot and looked it over as well as he could. Then he says, "I reckon this one will do. How much is it?" Anyhow, wrap it up for me.

The parrot had been looking at him, and I guess the bird thought the customer was acting thick. So the parrot says, "What's the matter with you?"

Then the guy from Oklahoma took off his hat and backed away. "Excuse me," he says, "I k-a-l thought you was a bird."

Administration Fears

Draught to Skyrocket

Prices of All Food

WASHINGTON—Efficient officials assure that there is no danger of a food shortage as a result of the drought tell only half the story. Unquestionably the statements are correct as far as they go.

It is true there will be no real dearth of basic food commodities. There is plenty of grain, and too many cattle. But that is not the real picture.

The crux of the drought problem is not whether there will be enough food, but what will be its price.

Behind every official assurance of plentiful food reserves there is an unspoken fear of price-kiting.

This possibility is now one of the major concerns of the Administration. It was the subject of important discussion at the President's first cabinet meeting upon his return to Washington.

AAA officials say privately that increases in the price of meat, milk, and dairy products are practically certain.

As a matter of fact, milk producers already have begun agitation for higher rates, claiming that the increased cost of feed has appreciably boosted their expenses.

In what way, and to what extent, the problem should and can be met is still undecided.

The Government's huge purchases of cattle in drought-stricken areas is being seized upon by some of the President's advisers as offering a means of curbing meat prices.

The Government, they point out, will establish a large meat reserve which could be put on the market at moderate prices, thus helping to prevent excessive price jacking.

More remedies than this, however, will be necessary.

Colorado Vigilantes Ride Again

The "vigilante" movement that meted out justice in the raw frontier west of the last century and appeared again during the depression has flared up in southern Colorado. Here is a scene at Pueblo, where six offices of local "public enemies," alleged robbers and bootleggers, were hanged from a tree in a cemetery where many "who died with their boots on" were buried.

and sent to a Northern prison. There he became acquainted with a Federal officer, and the two men became friends.

Eventually the Confederate officer was released, and the two men promised to visit one another.

But it was many years before the Northerner was traveling through the South and decided to look up his war-time friend.

Reaching the little South Carolina town he asked an old Negro if he knew General Williams.

"Yes, sah," was the reply. "I when you break it."

What's the use? If you continue to be ornery, you can't respect yourself. If you make a good resolution, you lose self-respect.

Back Door Strategy

Some of the political plotters in the Capitol have evolved a scheme to get around the President's dictum that he will keep out of inter-Democratic primary fights.

They used it to help out Senator Tom Connally when he faced a hard fight for re-nomination in Texas, and they used it again this week in Mississippi to help Senator Hubert Stephens when it looked as if his defeat by Congressman Ross Collins was certain.

The device is very simple. A telegram is sent to the Senator in trouble and asks him to come to Washington to see the President on urgent business. This makes him appear important in the home state, gives the impression Roosevelt is behind him.

When this was pulled to help Tom Connally, it was bona fide strategy. Roosevelt really was secretly behind him.

But when the same strategy was pulled to boost Senator Stephens, it was pure hokum, pulled behind the President's back. Roosevelt was in the Far West, knew nothing about the maneuver, no more wanted to see Stephens than he wanted to see Herbert Hoover.

What's the use? If you continue to be ornery, you can't respect yourself. If you make a good resolution, you lose self-respect.

known him well. Fact is, I used to work for him. "Well," the Northerner said, "you doubtless can tell me where he lives." "Boss," the Negro said, "General Williams ain't livin' no more. He's dead. You see, some Yankees came down here several years back and showed the General how to make some kind of a drink with grass in it. "Well, the General go so powerful fond of that grass that he just ate himself to death. I reckon maybe he foundered himself."
